

Ed.M. in Adult Education

Advance in your career with this distance-delivered master's Discover the many benefits of earning your master's degree in Education (Ed.M.) off-campus through Oregon State University's College of Education and Extended Campus.

College of Education

Convenient Delivery/Weekend Format

Attend classes only one weekend a month, over a three-year period (including summer). Classes begin Friday afternoon through Saturday and are held at the Wilsonville Training Center south of Portland.

Adult Learning Focused

Enhance your skills to work in training, education and organizational development.

Relevant Course Work

Immediately apply learning to your workplace. Online technology is integrated into all courses.

Collaborative Cohort Model

Gain the insight and support of fellow students who are working professionals in business, industry, higher education, non-profit agencies and government.

Inquire today!

Application requirements include a bachelor's degree, excellent written and oral communication skills, and professional recommendations and references. Review of applications for the fall 2008 cohort begins on March 31.

For more information

General Inquiries

Extended Campus Student Services
800-667-1465 ■ ecampus@oregonstate.edu

Department Contact

Laurie Brendle-Sleipness, Program Associate
Adult Education and Higher Education Leadership Department
OSU College of Education
541-737-4317 ■ laurie.brendle@oregonstate.edu

ecampus.oregonstate.edu/adult

“ I couldn't have obtained a master's degree without doing it through a distance program . . . it allowed me to obtain as normal a life as possible, while learning. Adult Education is a passion of mine and now I have the degree to continue pursuing my passion. ”

Katie Paulson
Ed.M. Adult Education

